Tales, Sketches, Anecdotes, &c.

A MOVING STORY.

The local of "The Buffalo Commercial" has been moving. Hear him:

Yesterday was the first of May, and everybody except those who were so unfortunate as to own their own houses—thereby being liable at any time to be sent to the State prison for the taxes—moved.

We moved.

And it was the movingest sight that we ever saw.

Our readers ought to have seen the scene.

Our folks commenced pulling up and tearing down the traps a week ago.

Most of the "plunder" was thrown into a heap and lumped off into loads, with a total disregard of ordinary rules.

The paregoric and hive syrup and vial, were packed in our new hat, one of J. W. Reed's latest and best.

The castor bottles were placed in our other boots, it being so handy to carry them by the loops. The stopper came out of one containing tomato catsup, and the mustard concern was broken off.

That is the best seasoned pair of boots we ever had.

The other family insisted on coming into the house before we got out.

And so things got mixed up some.

But we got everything that belonged to us at last.

The cartmen swore because the cook-stove was so heavy; and one said "d—d if he'd have it if we offered it to him."

Didn't offer it to him, but offered both of them a drink out of a quarter barrel of ale nearly full standing in the kitchen.

They took it—very kindly, but it made them thirsty all the forenoon.

Guess the spigot must have got out of the barrel on the road, for we couldn't squeeze half a glass out last night.

Finally got moved.

Thought 'd better to have our supper before we tackled the bedstead and the back room stove.

Commenced playing put up bedstead. It's fun, when you like it.

But people don't like it mostly.

None of the blasted rails would fit. Got the wrong ones into the wrong posts, and couldn't screw them up.

Marked them all with a pencil before we took them down, and thought we'd know how they went together again; but somebody wiped the marks all out.

And there we were.

Better half suggested that one at our time of life ought to have more patience, and gave it as her opinion that we "couldn't swear the bedstead together."

Found we couldn't.

Finally got 'em up, four of 'em, and commenced putting the cords on.

Cords broke, and we had to tie them together.

The knots wouldn't slip around the pegs, and we couldn't draw the rope tight.

More remarks by the child's mother on the subject of profanity.

Didn't pay any attention to her, and thus succeeded in getting through with the bed.

Then went down and "harnessed" the stove.

The legs all fell out when we tried to lift it on the zinc, but we got it in position at last.

Two lengths and one elbow of the pipe missing.

Finally found the elbow in the bureau drawer, and the two lengths rolled up in the parlor carpet.

Got a hatchet and a stick of wood, and commenced pounding the pipe together.

Knocked a chunk out of one of our knuckles, and got the elbow on wrong end up.

Had to take it all apart and change it. Commenced pounding again but couldn't make it jibe.

Pounded more.

The more we pounded the more it wouldn't fit, and we thought we'd give it up.

Expressing our opinion about stove pipes in general and this one in particular, and some allusion to the original inventor of this kind of furniture.

Went to the corner grocery and got "swie lager," felt refreshed, and resumed the attack on the pipe.

Found out that what ailed us before was that we hadn't pounded it enough.

Remedied the defect, and the job was done. Stove smoked beautifully.

Got wife to tie rags around three of our fingers and one thumb, and thought we'd sit down and have a smoke.

Got the tobacco can, but on ascertaining that the salt cellar had been emptied into it, made up our mind that we wouldn't smoke.

We concluded we'd better go to bed, and started to pick our way through the mass of things piled up and scattered.

Stumbled over the long rocker of a chair and barked one shin. Returned no answer to an interrogatory as to why we "didn't break our neck?" repeated "Now I lay me," and turned in.

Having a strong constitution, which enables us to bear a great deal of sleep, and always paying strict attention to our sleeping, didn't know anything till morning.

Went down stairs and found wife getting breakfast with tears in her eyes.

Told us she "was deceived in the house," if she had "known what it was, she would never have moved into it," and that she would never be able to "settle" in it.

This settled us; and declining to partake of the frugal morning meal which had been provided, (we remembered the supper,) we took our departure, promising to call in the early part of the ensuing week, when things had been "put to rights."

And we mean to go.

THE POOREST MAN IN THE WORLD.—Many years ago, two brothers went from Connecticut to Western New York to live. The country was new, and the land was cheap; so these brothers, who were young men, bought a great deal of it. They added acre to acre, and farm to farm, until they could go over whole townships without taking their feet from their own soil. Other emigrants came about them; and their land, which was fertile, became of great value; so, by the time the brothers were old men, they were very rich.

At last, the elder brother came to die; and, as he lay upon his death-bed, he asked to be lifted, so that he could look from the window. His friends raised him upon pillows, and threw open the window.

The dying man looked out over miles and miles of forest and hill and meadow, where grain was ripening in the sunshine, cattle and sheep were feeding, and the Genesee River was flowing through the midst in its beautiful valley.

Hill, meadow, and forest were all his,—everything his eyes looked upon; yet in a few hours he must go away, and take none of his riches with him,—go away alone, and in darkness, and without Jesus, for he was not a Christian. He had been so busy buying farms and houses and cattle that he had no time to think of anything else.

The rich man looked from the window a long time at his worldly riches,—at the waving grain, the shining river, the wide spreading trees, and the grazing cattle,—and then, turning away his head, burst into tears, saying, "I am the poorest man in the whole world.

"GOD BLESS YOU."—A crippled beggar was striving to pick up some old clothing that had been thrown from the window, when a crowd of rude boys gathered about him, mimicking his awkward movments, and hooting at his helplessness and rags. Presently a noble little fellow come up, and, pushing his way through the crowd, helped the poor crippled man to pick up his gifts, and placed them in a bundle. Then as he was running away, a voice above him said, "Little boy with a straw hat, look up." A lady leaning from a window, said earnestly, "God bless you, my little fellow, God will bless you for that." As he walked along, he thought how glad he had made his own heart by doing good. He thought of the poor beggar's grateful look; of the lady's smile and her approval; and last, and better than all, he could almost hear his Heavenly Father whispering, "Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy." Little reader, when you have an opportunity of doing good, and feel tempted to neglect it, remember the little boy with the straw hat.

AN HONEST ANSWER.—Recently a clergyman was preaching in Belfast when a young man in the congregation, getting weary of the sermon, looked at his watch. Just as he was in the act of examining his time-piece for the fourth or fifth time, the pastor, with great earnestness, was urging the truth upon the consciousness of his hearers. "Young man," said he, "how is it with you?" Whereupon the young man with the gold repeater bawled out, in hearing of nearly the whole congregation, "A quarter past eight." As may be supposed, the gravity of the assembly was much disturbed for a time.

AN exchange suggests that Henry Ward Beecher is literally following the advice given by Artemus Ward to a worthless young man. "Do something," said Artemus, "do something. If you can't get to be clerk to a manure wagon, why write for the Ledger?"

GETTING UP IN THE WORLD.

About eighteen months ago we gave in the Banner an account of the discovery of a bag of gold in a hollow log, by a colored man, not far from Dyersburg, in West Tennessee. We have lately received some additional particulars bearing on the original fact, which are even still more remarkable. They relate to what the lucky freedman did with his bag of gold, and what became of him after he had turned it into greenbacks. The story is briefly this:

He went to Memphis, by the advice of some friends, who gave him a letter of recommendation to Mr. Robert M. Bruce, of that city. Mr. Bruce proved a friend indeed. He took his gold, counted it, and found it made in all twenty-nine hundred dollars, which he sold at a time when gold was nearly fifty per cent. premium, investing the sum total, more than four thousand dollars, in United States five-twenty gold-bearing bonds. The name of the colored man was Henry James.

He remained in Memphis three months, and, being expert and intelligent, he learned before he quit the place to read a little and to shave a great deal. Thence he repaired to New Orleans and became an employee of La Vic, the fashionable barber on Canal street.

His handsome appearance, naturally fine manners, and skill as a hair-dresser, brought him into great popularity. He was also prudent as well as aspiring. He kept his gold bonds safe, let the interest accumulate, and added to it by his savings, which were considerable. At night he attended school, and besides his English acquirements of reading, writing and arithmetic, he picked up by his daily associations a tolerable smattering of French. Early in the present year he had just ten five hundred dollar five-twenty bonds, bearing six per cent annual interest in gold, making five thousand dollars of capital and three hundred income.

During the month of January he fell in with General Richard Tolbert, of Texas, a Confederate officer of cavalry, who was going to Europe, and made an arrangement to accompany him as an attendant, as the General was in ill health. Accordingly about the 1st of March they set out together, and arrived in Paris on the 15th. What our colored friend's adventures may have been in the gay capital since his arrival we know not, but the following advertisement, which appears in the issue of Galignani's Messenger for May 17, will throw some light on his present status:

ATTENTION, AMERICANS.

Mr. Henry James (late of New Orleans, United States,) has the honor to announce that he has opened an American bar at No. 37 Castiglione, near the Place Vendome, where he will furnish mixed drinks, including Bourbon and Robertson County cocktails, mint juleps, &c., on the Kentucky and Tennessee plan. Mr. James offers the following references: George N. Sanders, Mr. Wigfall, of Texas, Hon. John Slidell, Hon. J. P. Benjamin, Col. Hiram Fuller, Richard M. Talbot. Small parties served to order.

Whether our colored friend from Dyer county has invested his bag of gold, i. e. his ten 5-20 bonds, in a neat little rendezvous for thirsty Confederates, or whether he still holds his securities and merely represents some one else, or a company, we know not; but certain it seems to be that Henry James, who found the bag of gold in a hollow log away off in the wilds of West Tennessee, and Henry James, of Rue Castiglione, Paris, is one and the same person, the moral of which is that there are some mighty queer ups and downs in this world, and the especial application being that our hero has made a considerable rise in life for a backwoods Tennessee darkey, two years ago proprietor of nothing but a hoe-handle and a fine-tooth comb.—Nashville Banner, June 8.

WE learn that the people of Danville, Pa., are upon the point of starvation. They had a case of small pox a few weeks ago and since then it has spread, and now there are some twelve cases of the genuine and forty of varioloid. The Councils passed stringent ordinances, creating a panic, and preventing citizens from without coming into the village. The consequence is they are an isolated race—without food, succor, or aid from the outside world. A merchant on Saturday took a team and went into the country to purchase produce, but the farmers, knowing he was from the "infected district," would not allow him to come within talking distance, and he, like Noah's dove, was compelled to return with bad tidings to those who were watching his coming. This is a hard case, and something should be done to succor our neighbors from starvation.

WHY is the tolling of a bell like the prayer of a hypocrite? Because it is a solemn sound from a thoughtless tongue.

CORWIN AND MRS. SHANNON.

Corwin's opponent in the Gubernatorial race was the then incumbent, Governor Wilson Shannon. During one of his trips from one appointment to another Corwin and the wife of Shannon were fellow passengers in a public stage-coach. They had never met, and were unknown to each other. Mrs. Shannon had no escort, but carried only her infant boy in her arms. the remainder of the passengers consisted of Corwin's friends, who made the round of the State with him, and who were also ignorant of the presence of the rival candidate's "better half." They were not long left in this blissful ignorance, for the lady, aroused by their free use of hard-cider sentiments, soon gave them to understand in very plain English that she was "a good Locofoco," and, moreover "the wife of Governor Shannon to boot." This announcement was rather startling to the gentlemen. Corwin was the first to recover his composure and take advantage of the situation. Expressing himself delighted at having met her, he placed himself beside Mrs. Shannon, and at once became very attentive to her. He told her of his acquaintance with her husband, spoke in highly complimentary terms of his character and public career, and expressed his unbounded admiration of the man. The lady was charmed, and begged several times to know the name of her new friend. Corwin found means to avoid answering that question. The lady overlooked this evasion, and told Corwin in confidence (loud enough, of course, to be heard by the hard-cider men) that her husband was certain of a re-election—"that he was not to be beaten by that fellow Tom Corwin, who was nothing after all," she added, "but a wagon boy when young."

"And who now goes about the country," suggested Corwin, "making himself ridiculous by driving a six horse team, log-cabin mounted on a country [illegible]."

And who, they say, is as black as the ace of spades," chimed in the lady.

"Black, Madam!" exclaimed Corwin. "Black? Yes, black as the—I beg your pardon—as I am."

Continuing the deception in a manner which kept his friends convulsed with smothered laughter, Corwin took the lady's baby in his arms, fondled and dandled it, calling it the "Young Governor," and carried the heart of its mother by storm. At length the lady reached her destination, and informed Corwin so with a sigh of regret. The gallant but unknown candidate assisted the Governor's lady to alight, took the child in his arms, and carried it into the house. He saw the lady in her parlor, and laid the infant flat on its back in her lap. Holding it there for a moment, he said:

"My dear Mrs. Shannon, I have laid the 'Young Governor' flat on his back, and I'm going to serve the Old Governor in the same way at the coming election. Good-bye. I ought to have told you before that my name is—Tom Corwin, who was nothing but a wagon-boy, and who is pretty black, I admit. Good-bye!" and before Mrs. Shannon could recover from her astonishment he was gone. He did lay the "Old Governor" "flat on his back," but the latter returned the compliment two years later.

ONE day during the hard winter of 1863, a Miss Arnold applied to General Milroy for a permit to forage for her cow, the milk of which was the chief support of the family. "Are you loyal?" asked the General. "Yes," she replied. He began to write the permit—"To the United States or Confederate States?" "To the Confederacy, of course," she replied. "Then I shall give you no permit," said the General. "This infamous rebellion must be crushed." "Well," said she, "if you can crush it by starving John Arnold's cow, go it."

AN Indian passing up the streets of Natchez, a few days since, was asked the relative position of white man, negro and Indian. Giving a usual "Ugh!" he said: "'Fore the war, fust cum white man, den injin, den dog, den nigger; now cum nigger, den dog, den injin, and white man last!"

A FORLORN fellow says thus plaintively:—"When Sally's arms her dog imprisen, I always wish my neck was his'n; how often would I stop and turn, to get a pat from a hand like her'n; and when she kisses Towser's nose, oh! don't I wish that I were those."

"MA, why is a postage stamp like a bad scholar?" "I can't tell my son; why is it?" "Because it gets licked and put in a corner."

FOR JUDGE OF SUPREME COURT:
HON. GEORGE SARSWOOD,
Of Philadelphia.

Democratic County Convention.

The Democracy of Cambria county are requested to meet in their several election districts, on Saturday the 29th day of June, instant, for the purpose of selecting delegates to represent said districts in a Democratic County Convention, to be held at the Court House in Ebensburg, on Monday the 1st day of June next, to nominate a Democratic County Ticket. GEO. C. K. ZAHM,
Chairman Democratic Co. Com.

Democratic County Convention.

The Democracy of Cambria county are called upon to assemble in their respective townships, wards and boroughs, on Saturday next, to choose two delegates to the nominating Convention, to be held on the Monday following, at the Court House in Ebensburg, for the purpose of placing before the people a county ticket.

The duties incumbent on the people should be carefully discharged, The democratic organization is older than the century in which we live. It marshalled its forces in the political field when its opponents first attempted to tyrannize over the people by the alien and sedition laws of the elder Adams. From that period until Northern fanaticism and Southern folly plunged us into civil war, her men and her measures conducted the country steadily and peacefully to her present proud position; and if the blessings of our government are to be handed down to posterity, it must be done by the success of the Democratic party.

The reason of the long successful career of the Democratic party may be found in the fact that, while its principles commended themselves to the intelligence of the people, its supporters always manifested a proper interest in its success. Democrats had realized the importance of the maxim of their great apostle, Jefferson, that "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty," and thus felt themselves, for one obligations to attend to their primary meetings, and see that candidates who are honest and capable are placed before the people.

On the present occasion we can only say that it is the duty of all citizens who believe that the best interests of the country will be promoted by the success of democratic men and democratic measures, to attend the primary elections, assert their preference honestly and fearlessly, vote for those delegates who will enforce their sentiments, and trust the rest to the nominating Convention.

We know it is the practice of some democrats to fold their arms and take no part until after the nominations are made, and then criticise the conduct of others, and charge unfairness upon the Convention. This is all wrong. Now is the time to speak, and if the people do speak in their majesty, a Convention, so constituted, will give the Democracy a ticket which will increase the Democratic majority of the county over that of any preceding year.

A JUMBLE OF IDEAS.

The Johnstown Tribune, a fair paper generally, takes a singular view of the Jeff. Davis difficulty. It insists that the radical Underwood is right in discharging Davis now, but that the conservative Johnson should have hung him long ago. We think the Tribune is radically wrong.

The Republican Supreme Court have decided that it would be murder to hang Jeff. Davis by martial law; and permitting the radicals to murder Mrs. Surratt (vide Butler) is perhaps as much of that kind of law as President Johnson wants.

To have executed Jeff. Davis at any time, without a trial and conviction under the Constitution and laws, no matter how deep his treason, would have been murder. The President could have pardoned Jeff. Davis at any time, but he had no power to hang him. He did not pardon him. Judge Underwood might have tried him, but he discharged him.

JAMES P. BARR, Esq., of the Pittsburgh Post, has been presented with a service of silver, by the ladies of Louisville, Kentucky, as a token of their appreciation of his efforts in behalf of the starving people of the South.

HIRAM HAYES.

This individual was arraigned and tried for the offence of rape at June Sessions, and acquitted. A verdict of not guilty usually ends a case, but it seems he is to be tried over again in the newspapers.

The Alleghanian appears to think that Hayes ought to have been convicted of something, but seems to forget that he was only tried for rape, and could not be convicted of anything else. And no legal mind that heard the case tried, however much his sympathies may have been with the unfortunate girl, could for a moment have believed that the offence charged in the indictment was made out. Nor was the evidence of adultery any stronger than that of rape. The testimony of the girl, if believed, was sufficient to convict of either, but neither courts nor jurors, who were sworn to do justice, could convict under all the circumstances.

The assertion that "the prisoner's counsel did not offer to deny" that he was guilty of adultery, is entirely false. They denied the probability of the prosecutrix' statement throughout and if Mr. Hutchinson had been in the Court House when the case was tried, he would have not done them the injustice to say so. No doubt he believed he was telling the truth, but he got his reports from some one who either knew or cared little for the truth.

We agree that good character is no answer to clearly proven crime, but where the story is improbable and contradictory—only sworn to by a single witness, under circumstances of great doubt—it ought to have the same influence with a jury as any other fact.

We agree with the Alleghanian that the fact of Mr. Hayes being a radical preacher was a suspicious circumstance, but we don't think that this fact alone should be sufficient to convict him of rape.

MacShane in Washington.

LETTER NUMBER SIX.

Having glanced at the Executive and Judicial departments of the Government it might be proper to dwell upon the "third estate," as it has been termed—the Congress of the United States. This branch has facetiously been called a "grave, deliberative body," but you would be puzzled, as a Freeman, to find its gravity, and its deliberations amount to little but deliberate folly. Its labors are very great, for in addition to its general and ordinary duties, it undertakes to "run the machine" for the Executive and Judicial departments also. I propose giving you a sketch of a few of its members, and shall commence with the late and present members from your district.

HON. A. A. BARKER.

Mr. Barker is entirely a self-made man—and made very large at that. He removed to your county about 1854, and since that time has been very actively engaged in shook making, lumbering, and in merchandising generally. From his advent there until the present time his business transactions have been unusually prosperous; and while prospering himself, he has greatly enhanced the prosperity of those with whom he had business relations. Indeed, very many of your citizens in the northern portion of Cambria county regard him as a public benefactor.

Mr. Barker, I need scarcely add, is a politician, extremely radical in his views, but honest in his convictions. In the former division of parties into Democrat and Whig, he eschewed both of these organizations, and connected himself with what were known as the Abolitionists proper, or the Liberty party, then insignificant in point of numbers, but which, under the name of Republican, has since swallowed up the Whig party.

Mr. B. was a candidate for the Congressional nomination in 1862, but was defeated by Hon. S. S. Blair, who was nominated, but defeated by McAllister. He again presented himself in 1864, and though opposed by nearly all the leading politicians in the district, succeeded in making the nomination; and was elected by the army vote. As a member Mr. Barker, though extreme in his views, gave the strictest attention to the local interests of his district. Especially were the interests of the soldiers, their parents, widows, and families cared for by Mr. B., whose industry in their behalf knew no limits.

Mr. Barker was a candidate for renomination, but was defeated by Mr. Morrell, the present incumbent, after a severe contest in the primary proceedings.

In person Mr. Barker is literally an able man—over six feet in height, and of a robust and powerful formation. His personal strength, where physical force is required, is a subject of remark among those who have seen it tried. His personal reputation is without blemish, and he refers, not without pride, to the strictness of his temperance principles, being one of the very few who never, at any time in his life, indulged in the use of intoxicating liquors. Like Shakespeare's Adam, in "As You Like It," he can truthfully say:

—I am strong and lusty,
For in my youth I never did apply
Hot and rebellious liquors in my blood:
Nor did not with unbashful forehead woo
The means of weakness and debility;
Therefore my age is as a lusty winter,
Frosty, but kindly.

HON. DANIEL J. MORRELL,

the successor of Mr. Barker, is, like him, a native of the State of Maine, so that the radical machine for your district is now run Mainely by that State. Mr. Morrell's Congressional experience is short, and his future success as a politician cannot be conjectured. He lifted himself into some notice by a finance measure, introduced by him, possessing some plausible features, but philosopher Greeley "gobbled" it up, and it became "a thing of the past."

Mr. Morrell, as a politician, is a man of more moderate views than his predecessor. Before his election he was a Fenian to some extent, and at a convivial assemblage, I am informed, drank to the "Nationality of Ireland." He does not approve of employing "colored gentlemen" about rolling mills, and I understand is pledged against it. But he is a practical friend of colonizing.

Mr. Morrell is a man of letters, having written two very long ones on the Tariff. These letters are in a very ironical view, and abound in Statesticks, to use the term of a Pennsylvania statesman. He is a ready writer, and able to write even "on the cars"—a difficult task for a conductor, let alone a non-conductor. Though an able writer, he never has, like his colleague, Covode, "writ" a book, the only works of which he is the author being the iron-works.

Mr. Morrell has sufficient private worth, business capacity and integrity to qualify him for any post he may be called upon to fill; and Brotherline, of the Whig, who always acts with candor and honesty, has already nominated him for Governor. You need not be surprised, however if he makes the Presidency, for he is now making rails, and that was Lincoln's principle recommendation. Besides, Mr. Morrell has friends around him of tact and talent, who will not fail to press his claims when an opportunity arises. Some of these men, too, are men of patriotism and character, which will do much to advance the interests of Mr. Morrell—men who served the Democratic party faithfully, when that party was pure and controlled the old Portage Rail Road; but now that the Democrats have become corrupt and out of power, will be equally faithful in any other organization. Like Dugald Dalgetty, having entered into the service of Mr. Morrell, they will stand by him as long as—— MACSHANE.

EDITORIALITIES.

The house of Mr. Harry Adams, of Snowshoe, Centre county, was struck by lightning, on Sunday week, and his wife and child considerably injured and himself stunned by the stroke. Three cats that were in the house at the time were killed.

George Hall, indicted in the Westmoreland county Court for importing illegal Covode voters into that county, has recently been found guilty, in Allegheny county, of felonious assault and battery, and sentenced to pay a fine of $300 and undergo two years imprisonment in the Penitentiary.

The dwelling and store of Michael M'Cabe and two adjoining buildings, at Dudley, Huntingdon county, were destroyed by fire on the 14th inst. On the 11th the barn of Mr. Wm. Steel, near Huntingdon, was set on fire by two little "darkeys" who were attempting to burn a wasp nest, and totally consumed.

A little child of Mr. Isaac Gorsuch, of Mill Creek, Huntingdon county, was noticed on the track of the Pennsylvania railroad, on the 11th inst., by the engineer of an approaching freight train, who immediately whistled down brakes, and succeeded in checking the progress of the train to such an extent as merely to shove the child from the track without doing it any serious hurt.

THE LATEST AND BEST NEWS is that R. H. Singer, who, upon his entree into our town, reduced the price of horse-shoeing one-third, has determined still to lead the van, and offers to work 10 per cent. lower than the lowest for cash, and insures satisfaction. Persons needing tire on their wagons or carriages, can save dollars by giving him their work. "A dollar saved is a dollar gained," and the way to save many of them is to get your blacksmithing done with Mr. Singer, at the west end of town. Mr. S. is also selling I. C. Singer's unequalled Tire and Band Bender—a machine which saves a great amount of time and labor and bends the Tire round and true—of which Wm. Myers, of Altoona, says he would not take $100 and do without. Any amount of testimony just like that can be shown, but the machine is its own best recommendations to a mechanic. Persons wishing to purchase should call on or address R. H. SINGER, Ebensburg.

RANCID BUTTER.—We clip from an exchange the following recipe: "To a pint of water add thirty drops (about half a teaspoonful) of chloride of lime. Wash in this two and a half pounds of rancid butter. When every particle of the butter has come in contact with the water, let it stand an hour or two; then wash the butter well in pure water, when it will be left without any oder, and as sweet as fresh butter. These preparations of lime have nothing injurious in them." The same paper says: "We forthwith obtained some of the most rancid butter, and it was bad enough for any stomach that had more sensibility than a wagon wheel. We doctored it as per recipe, and when placed on the table along with new, good butter, very able judges could not distinguish which was the new butter. Here is a fact worth a year's subscription to a paper."

A MAN DOWN—LIFT HIM!—Circumstances compel me to make a long call, a strong call, and a sincere and determined call to all those knowing themselves indebted, the subscriber having liabilities to meet and drugs and other articles to buy, requiring cash and nothing but cash, although greenbacks might do. All the money that I have received from my patrons since my debut in Cambria county has not been sufficient to clear my drug bills. I do assure my friends that it is not my pleasure to harass or distress any one, but my necessity. I therefore hope this call will be sufficient notice to all. J. J. KRISE, M. D.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

To Correspondents.—A reply to the "Teacher's Advocate," on the subject of "Compulsory Attendance," came to hand too late for our outside, and owing to its great length, we find it impossible to make room for it this week. It will appear on the first page of next week's Freeman. Our columns are open for the discussion of this, or any other important question, with this restriction, however, that no paper shall hereafter exceed two columns. We must keep up our usual variety.

A communication from our Altoona correspondent, "T. I. M.," in which he replies to the ungentlemanly resolution passed at a meeting of the "boys in blue," in reference to his letter of week before last, came to hand and after our paper had been put to press on Wednesday. It will appear next week. Our Shirleysburg friend will find correction duly made. Can't visit low country now, but he can escape to the mountain if he will. He will find no draft, now except-ing a draught of pure mountain air, or pure mountain—dew. Meantime the Freeman will warm its copper as the canvass progresses.

"The Streamlet" shall have a place in the Freeman of next week. We owe its fair author an apology for the delay in its appearance. It was mislaid in the confusion of Court. We hope to hear from Miss J. T. soon.

Supposed Stolen Horse Recovered.—We learn from the Indiana Democrat that a young man with one arm, hailing from Carrolltown, this county, proposed to sell a fine horse which he was riding, near the former place, on Saturday week last, at a price which led to the suspicion that the animal had been stolen. Pursuit was accordingly made, but the young man, doubtless thinking discretion the better part of valor, abandoned the horse and took to the woods, since when nothing has been learned of his whereabouts. The horse, which is a brown one about five years old, and had on when captured a wagon saddle and blind-brindle, is now in the possession of Mr. John Nagle, of Indiana, who is anxious to hear from the owner. We will add that there are no horse thieves in Cambria county, nor no one armed to do about Carrolltown. Our people are all honest and "two-fisted."

Still Another.—A few days ago a Mr. Hendricks, of Indiana, purchased a horse from a stranger for $50, which he afterwards sold to a third party for another horse. Since then he has been called upon by the latter gentleman with a request to return horse No. 2, a livery stable keeper from Latrobe having established his claim to and taken possession of horse No. 1. Of course Mr. Hendricks could do no better than deliver up the horse, and as a consequence is minus the fifty dollars invested.

Adj. Noon's Commission.—Below we insert the letter of Gen. Humphreys accompanying the commission of the late Adj. J. C. Noon, of this place:

Engineer Department,
Washington, April 29, 1867.

Maj. Gen. J. W. Geary, Governor of the State of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg—General: I have the satisfaction of transmitting to you the Brevet Commissions of Captain and Major for the family of Lt. James C. Noon, 63d Pa Vols, killed at the battle of Fredericksburg, Dec 13, 1862. These Brevets have been conferred for the gallant conduct of Lt Noon, mentioned in my official report of the battle, and brought especially to the notice of the Secretary of War during the late session of Congress.

I trust that this indication of appreciation of Major Noon's gallant services may prove acceptable to his family and friends.

I have to ask that you will transmit these commissions to his family, their address being unknown to me.

Very respectfully, your ob't servant,
A. A. Humphreys,
Brig. Gen. and Ch'f Eng'rs; Maj. Gen Vols.

Long Drawn Out.—We were shown, a day or two ago, by Mr. Joseph Geis, of Richland township, a photograph likeness of one of the delegates to the recent Convention of Catholic Benevolent Associations in Pittsburgh, by name Mr. A. Kerpen, a citizen of Chicago, whose beard measures six feet in length. Mr. K. is 46 years old and a shoemaker by trade, although we did not learn that he ever used any of his beard for wax ends. The hair has been growing on his face for seven years, and he is now in fit condition to "beard the lion in his den." There is no lyin' about the beard, however.

Fatal Railroad Accident.—On Wednesday morning of last week, as we learn from the Whig, a sad accident occurred near Gallitzin, this county, by which Mr. Stephen Fleming, of Hollidaysburg, lost his life. It appears that while he was engaged in uncoupling cars he was precipitated to the track, and seven cars passed over both legs, just below the knees, terribly mangling them. Medical aid was immediately summoned, but the unfortunate man only survived a few hours. The deceased had been a soldier in the army, and was unmarried.

Fourth of July at Gallitzin.—The approaching national anniversary is to be celebrated by a grand pic-nic at Gallitzin, within three hundred yards of the station, and a glorious time may be expected. The grounds will be fitted up in fine style, the delicacies of the season will be served with lavish hands, and good string bands will be in attendance throughout the day. All persons wishing to spend the day in becoming and pleasant recreation are invited to attend.

Kicked by a Horse.—We regret to learn that our friend Patrick Moran, of Loretto, was kicked between the eyes by a vicious horse, whose feet he was examining preparatory to putting shoes on them, on Tuesday of last week. Mr. M. was knocked senseless for a time, but fortunately escaped serious injury, and has since sufficiently recovered to resume work.

Editorialities, Local and General.—Some of the Lewistown negroes had a free fight the other day.

Complaints are made that in Eastern Pennsylvania the wheat is already "lodging," owing to recent storms and the unusual weight of the heads.

The "Genius of Liberty" establishment, at Uniontown, Fayette county, is offered for sale, on account of the death of its former editor, Mr. Roddy.

A man named Shaw accidentally shot himself in the arm and head, near Latrobe, week before last, while engaged in shooting fish. His injuries are not serious.

A man named Mathiss Ott fell from the roof of a building upon which he was at work, near St. Clairsville, Bedford county, a few days ago, and was instantly killed.

"My Gift" is a neat little volume of poems of which Cyrus Elder, Esq., of Johnstown, is the author. We acknowledge the receipt of a copy, and shall review it in our next.

The rebel Gen. Longstreet has very naturally become a radical leader and candidate for Congress, and Forney and the rest seem to be delighted with this "red handed rebel."

The papers of the State, without regard to party, bear testimony to the sterling worth and high legal attainments of Judge Sharswood, the Democratic candidate for Supreme Judge.

The Radical Convention met at Williamsport yesterday. Cambria has no delegate. Hon. John Scott represents Huntingdon, and is instructed for Judge Taylor and Judge Linn.

L. M. Talman was convicted in the Indiana county Court, last week, of stealing a watch from a lodger at the "Indiana House," and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary.

John Fausold and William Ross are the Democratic candidates for the Legislature in Westmoreland county. The Indiana-ans, who elect with Westmoreland, have not yet announced their candidate.

The Alleghanian inquires if William McCleery, who recently "went up" in Allegheny Sessions for bigamy, is the same who was a witness in the Buser and Houser trial. No, that was William McCreery.

A charter has been granted to a company to construct a turnpike road from Johnstown to Belsano, in Blacklick township. Such a road would be of great utility, and we hope it will be constructed.

Robert Glass, of Bell township, Westmoreland county, was struck by a passenger train on the Pennsylvania railroad, on the 10th inst., and knocked about twenty feet. He only lived fifteen or twenty minutes.

The exhibition at St. Francis' College, Loretto, on Tuesday last, was a most pleasing and interesting entertainment—alike creditable to professors and pupils. Next week we will refer to the exercises in detail.

We regret to learn that A. Kopelin, Esq., the very efficient and popular Burgess of Johnstown, has resigned his office. He had succeeded in bringing order out of chaos in the Southern metropolis, and his place can scarcely be filled.

Over one hundred petitions for liquor licenses were granted by the Cambria court. That county badly needs a moral power for temperance.—Hunt. Globe. It's not for Cambria county, bless you! It's all for "strangers and travelers!"

Barber (an accomplice of Stevens, who recently broke jail,) was put on trial at Clearfield for horse stealing, at nine o'clock on Tuesday morning of last week, and by twelve he was found guilty and sentenced to the Penitentiary for four years.

"Observer," of the Alleghanian, amuses his idle moments by nominating tickets for the Democrats. He has "nothing else to do," as the radicals in Cambria county are on their beam ends entirely. They cannot even get their County Committee together.

We can only briefly announce this week that J. M. Thompson's store still continues the centre of attraction for desirable and cheap goods. Jim keeps his stock up to the highest standard in quantity and quality, and down to the lowest point in prices.

The Catholic ladies of Wilmore design holding a pic-nic on Thursday next, the 4th of July, and the mere announcement of the fact will be inducement sufficient to attract a goodly concourse of pleasure seekers. We never knew our fair Wilmore friends to fail in rendering occasions of this kind attractive and enjoyable in the highest degree, and we can promise that much on this occasion.

An unknown man, badly bruised about the head, was found near Black Log station, on the Pennsylvania railroad, on the evening of the 11th inst., under circumstances that left no doubt of his having been foully dealt with. He was seen in company with two other men on the morning of the day on which he was found, and is said to have had some $200 in his possession at that time, none of which was found upon his person. He was still unable to speak at last accounts, and his recovery is considered doubtful.

On Monday last, an individual named Horn, from Cambria county, brought a load of lumber to town, which he sold and received the money therefor. He then went to the bank and drew out $565, and afterwards visited the classic precincts of some of those moral institutions, licensed by the Court to refresh the weary traveler, in the neighborhood of the basin, where he regaled himself with the harmless beverages there vended. The upshot of the matter was that the decline of day found him minus the "stamps." He wasn't drunk! Oh, no, just "felt good."—Hollidaysburg Leader. So it seems our Cambria man Horn "fell among thieves." We advise him, and all others, to be careful hereafter as to the number of "horns" they indulge in when trading in the capital of Blair. If they don't, they will make money out of their lumber "in a Horn."

James Connor, Esq.—We take special pleasure in directing attention to the card of James Connor, Wholesale Grocer, Pittsburgh, which appears in our advertising columns to-day. A somewhat extended business intercourse with Mr. Connor enables us to speak knowingly of him, and we can say it as candidly as we ever uttered any assertion, that he is a straightforward, reliable, accommodating and honest man, whose representations in every particular may be implicitly relied upon, and whose stock is ever A No. 1 in variety and excellence. If our word is of any weight with any person who makes his purchases in Pittsburgh, we give it freely and unreservedly in favor of Mr. Connor, and we believe we know whereof we speak. See his card.

Blair County Ahead.—We gave as an item of news, a couple weeks ago, a brief account of the fact that a child in Massachusetts, aged ten months, was blessed with living ancestors back as far as the fifth generation. Since then we have been informed by a lady friend residing in Altoona, that there is a child in that county (of which the lady herself is grand-aunt) named Graham, four years of age, whose mother, grandmother, great-grandmother and great-great-grandmother are still living, and are all in vigorous health. So Blair county "sees" Massachusetts, and goes three years and two months better.

Found.—A ten cent coin, dated 1832, was recently found in the "slope-wall" of the old Portage Rail Road, near Johnstown, by some workmen who were engaged in excavating for the abutment of a new bridge. The place where the most goods can be bought for the least money has also been found, and proves to be the cheap mercantile emporium of V. S. Barker, on High st., Ebensburg. Try the experiment of buying there and see if you don't find it just so.

Robbery.—We regret to learn that the store of our friends and patrons, Messrs. Kinports & Horter, at Cherrytree, Indiana county, was entered by burglars, on the night of the 12th inst., and $50 in money and several suits of clothing stolen therefrom. Entrance was gained by boring out a portion of the front door.

If any of our readers desire to purchase a clock, watch, jewelry, or fancy article of any kind, our candid advice to them is to consult C. T. Roberts, on High street. Cham. has most anything in his line that could be wished, and his prices will compare favorably in cheapness with those of any other dealer in the country.

Mills & Davis have made recent large additions to their stock of goods, and no matter what article may be asked for, they seldom fail to supply the want. They have built up a good trade in a very short time, and this they have accomplished by giving every person the worth of their money.

Carpets.—H. A. Shoemaker & Co. have the largest display of carpets now in this market, besides a choice assortment of furniture and an endless variety of all other kind of merchandise. Prices reduced to the lowest prevailing rates.

LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.

Johnstown, June 24, 1867.

Dear Freeman—In your last issue I noted the arrest of an alleged horse thief by Major Ryckman, and although circumstances seemed to indicate that the young man had came by the horse surreptitiously, his reticence in regard to his name, or anything pertaining to himself, and no possible clue fixing his identity in the supposed stealing of the animal being obtainable, it was determined, on Monday last, to discharge him, but when just about permitting him to take his departure a constable from Canonsburg, Pa., made his appearance, and at once identified him as a young fellow named Rodebaugh, who, it was supposed, had stolen the horse, and recognized the animal as the property of a citizen of that locality. After satisfying the Burgess that he was all that he represented himself to be, he was permitted to take the prisoner with him, to be lodged in jail at the above place until he could be tried. The prisoner was "hobbled," but at Homewood Station, near Pittsburgh, he succeeded in making his escape through a car window, just as the train was starting, and the strange part of the story is, that although the constable jumped off and caught him, he alleges the boy's grip was stronger than his, and so he escaped. There is something peculiar in the idea of a hobbled boy escaping from a stout, active man, and I could not help remarking the singularity of the affair at the time the constable was narrating it. To my mind it seems clear that the supposed officer was a confederate, and after permitting his prisoner to escape he returned to get the horse. The police had, however, "smelled the mice," and refused to deliver up the animal until the owner would make his appearance.

A boy named Foster, thirteen years of age, met with a sad death at one of the Company ore mines, on Tuesday last. The boy had hitched his mule to a train of ore cars, which were loaded, and just after starting he slipped and fell upon the track, the cars passing over and crushing him in such a manner that he died shortly afterwards.

Our worthy and efficient Burgess, A. Kopelin, Esq., sent in his resignation to Borough Council at last meeting, which was accepted, and a special meeting called for this evening to elect an officer to fill the position until the next regular election. A petition from a large number of our most influential citizens, praying the Council to re-appoint Col. Kopelin, have been sent in to that body. I am free to say that there are few men in Johnstown at the present time who could have taken hold of our municipal affairs at the time Col. Kopelin was inducted into office, and who could have worked such a radical change in the local government of our town. At that time a lady could scarcely pass along our principal thoroughfares, at any hour of the day or evening, without having her ears saluted with the most vulgar and obscene language, and, in fact, our roughs were striving to emulate the large cities in all species of vice. But Kopelin soon became master of the situation, and I challenge any man to-day to point out as moral and peaceable a town within the limits of the country, in proportion, of course, to its population, as is this town. I only hope his successor will do as well.

The first case of an immoral character which has transpired here for a long time, came before Squire Rutledge on Friday evening last. Two nymphes du pave from Millville borough were arrested, upon complaint of a neighbor, for "indecent exposure," "lewdness," and several other charges of a like nature. I regret to say that the Squire's office was rather better filled by a certain class of carnal minded than it would have been had one of our popular ministers been delivering a religious discourse. The details of this case are rather too disgusting for publication, but the parties were bound over to answer the charges at Court.

A pic-nic came off at New Florence last week under the auspices of Jno. B. Hay and W. R. Smith. Your correspondent acknowledges the compliment of an invitation, but was compelled to forego the pleasure of attending. I understand it was a very pleasant social re-union, and in fact nothing else could be expected from the young men who were the projectors.

A number of pic-nics are on the tapis for the 4th of July, among which I may note the annual pic-nic of the Catholics, the pic-nic of the Red Men, and one to be at Conemaugh. For the accomodation of the latter a train of passenger cars will be run at intervals during the day, the fare on which will be for the benefit of the new M. E. Church. The former is under the superintendance of gentlemen who are au fait in the matter, and a pleasant time may be expected. Citizens of your town are cordially invited to attend this pic-nic.

We had pop visits from a number of your townsmen last week, among which I may mention the brief advent of Col. McDermitt, Dr. Thomas and D. A. Conrad. I also noticed several of your Ebensburg fair ones, but as it would not do to mention names in their case they will please notice that Sku Bal didn't forget them.

If Mr. Dern will agree to it, I will not only be willing to go up to your antiquated village on the 4th, and prove that we cannot only whistle Yankee Doodle, but that we can sing it too; and, further, on my part, if I can't bring a baby elephant to exhibit, I will bring an elephant baby, all of which is respectfully submitted. Sku Bal.

Latrobe, Pa., June 17, 1867.

Mr. Editor—I was obliged to disappoint you, as well as many of your most intelligent readers, last week. This was owing to my having wandered too far from the P. O., and the wet condition of the weather just at that time. You see, Mr. Editor, I have become temporarily absent from that great central depot of morality and literature, yclept No. 4 alias Laurel Run alias Hemlock alias Lilly's. But though bodily absent, much of my affection still lingers there. This is of course due to the interesting character of the place. Now, Mr. Editor, I am well aware that the exercise of a little more modesty in speaking of one's own particular locality would be becoming in your humble correspondent; nevertheless, duty seems to impel me to hold up this dear little place to the admiring gaze of all lovers of beauty, of fairness—in fact, of general amiableness. But enough of this, and now for Observations in Old Westmoreland.

The crops of wheat, rye and grass are said never to have looked better in this county at this time of the year. Fruit is likely to be a very slim crop here, especially apples and pears. It was killed in the blossom by the cold rains. I was in some instances astonished at the highly cultivated appearance of many of the farms, especially in the neighborhood of towns, and particularly in the vicinity of Latrobe and New Derry. You may be surprised when I tell you that some of these farmers have a greater and more tastefully selected variety of ornamental trees and shrubbery than there are at Cresson, not to speak of the extensive and various orchards of fruit trees. Portable steam saw mills are rapidly converting the larger growth of the remaining natural groves of timber into fencing boards and other lumber, and fences well built of locust posts and white oak boards, are rapidly shoving the old rail back out of view from the more public thoroughfares.

Blackberries don't appear to be of sufficient value to induce the farmers in this county to give them room to grow, even in the fence corners, and you may ride many miles in different directions without seeing a handful of anything in the briar or weed line.

But I must not forget to notice the general neatness, taste and substantiality of the buildings. Indeed, some of these farmers' residences approach a palace-like appearance.

Of course there will be too much of this for your spare space, but I cannot close until I have told you that I saw and took the dimensions of the log house built on the north side of the Loyalhanna creek by Maj. Cochran, who accompanied Gen. Forbes on his expeditions against the Indians in 1758, I believe, and whose descendants (the Cochrans) still reside in that neighborhood. This habitation of that daring old pioneer has peculiar interest for the antiquarian. It is built of white oak logs, slightly hewn, and is 24 by 22 feet. The fire-place is 12 ft. wide, including the thickness of the jambs. The mantelpiece is of white oak, and where it rests on the jambs is 80 inches square. The doors are placed opposite to each other, and I was told that the old Major had a particular object in so placing them, as it enabled him to haul in large sticks of wood, his horse entering by one door and passing out at the other. The gables are closed by clapboards, nailed on, the same that were first put on. The port-holes through which they used to shoot at the Indians are now closed. The entire building is in a tolerable state of preservation, and may stand another half century. This venerable building has been occupied as a dwelling until a year or so ago. Mordecai.

Hemlock, June 24, 1867.

Mr. Editor—Your excuse for the non-appearance of my last production is accepted as satisfactory—still I did think that a small document like that could be conveyed per railroad a distance of 12 miles in less than three days. But, "it is all right."

Accident.—A boy 15 or 16 years old, son of Mr. Wm. George, of this township, engaged as driver at Dysart & Co's coal bank, met with a severe accident on Tuesday last. The mule which he drove being at large, the boy endeavored to catch him, when the vicious animal, wheeling, kicked him in the face, literally splitting his nose lengthwise, from the point nearly up to his eye, cutting it clean to the bone, as well as inflicting a cut about an inch and a half in length on his upper lip. Dr. Walter Bell was immediately summoned, and having dressed the wounds, the boy was sent home in a buggy by Mr. Dysart. I must not omit to mention in this connection the generous conduct of Mr. D., who, happening to arrive just after the accident, manifested a father's sympathy for the boy, telling the doctor to do everything necessary for the poor boy, and he would "see it right." Mr. Dysart has a heart of flesh in his breast, and not a petrified one, as are those of some who are, or have lately been, engaged in the coal trade at this point.

R. Dettling, Esq., is getting up a good thing in the shape of a 4th of July dinner, in a handsome grove near this place. No doubt about his success.

That last effort of MacShane's was certainly happy. I don't think I could have done that any better myself, especially that about the statue—ha! ha! ha! he! he! he-ee! Mr. Editor, if you should lose MacShane as a contributor you may go "bobbin' around" some time before you find one fit to take his place. Yours, very considerably, &c.,
Mordecai.

MARRIED.

On Tuesday afternoon, June 18th, 1867, at the residence of the bride's parents, by Rev. Joseph Painter, J. Patton Thompson, of Philadelphia, and Miss Ellie Thompson, daughter of Alex. Reynolds, Esq., of Kittanning, Pa. No cards.

Regretfully we part from thee,
Thou prince of clever baches,
Nor ever thought thou wouldst be sought
In Cupid's curt despatches.

But since 'tis so, we wish thee, Joe,
A union nought can sever;
Life's greatest boon, an endless June—
A honeymoon forever,

Thy bonny bride, may joy betide,
The fair that each one blesses:—
Long may thy arm support that form,
And share its fond caresses.

And may each year still more endear
Those hearts with love unbroken—
And Heaven supply, as time flits by,
Each year affection's token.

At Carrolltown, on Corpus Christi, by Rev. Giles Christoph, Mr. Isadore Farabaugh, of Altoona, and Miss Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. John Flick, of Carroll township.

—At Mendon, Vt., on Thursday, the wife and daughter of James S. Willis were struck and instantly killed by lightning, while standing at the front door of their residence.

—A little girl in Cincinnati, Thursday, was nursing an infant brother. The infant slipped through her arms and fell head first into a bucket of dirty water and was drowned.

—An exchange thinks that, instead of exacting bail from Davis to appear and stand a trial, the Radical leaders should have been compelled to enter into recognizance to grant him a trial.

—George Miller, a boy 17 years of age, who has been a captive among the Indians since 1865, having effected his escape, is reported to have arrived at Denver City. He was captured by some roving Blackfeet, but afterwards was stolen from them by the Cheyennes. He reports that the Cheyennes hold five woman in captivity.

—A negro lately fished up a torpedo from Stono river, below Charleston, S. C., and trying to break it open with a hatchet, it exploded, blowing him to atoms. A small piece of one arm lodged in a tree was all that was found of him. Two other negroes were blown into the river and killed and two more mortally wounded.

—A boy named Thos. Gallagher, aged seven years, with some other boys, were drinking from a hydrant in front of some new buildings in Philadelphia on Friday afternoon, when one of the bricklayers threw a brick at the boys, which struck young Gallagher on the head, causing instant death. The murderer was arrested.

—In a blacksmith shop in Auburn, Ill., the other day, a man named Thaxton stabbed one named Hurst in the bowels, causing his death almost instantly. The murderer was arrested, and on his way to jail the officers allowed their prisoner to stop at his house for a few minutes, where, after eating a hearty supper, he deliberately disemboweled himself with a table knife.

—A very formidable "anti-Popery riot" occurred at Birmingham, England, on the 18th. Two streets of the city were taken by the rioters and completely sacked. The Roman Catholic chapel was attacked and, it was thought, would be destroyed. At three o'clock the rioters had full possession of the city and were outraging and plundering. Large bodies of troops had been sent to the scene with orders to put a stop to the riot at all hazards.

COE'S DYSPEPSIA CURE!!

This great remedy for all DISEASES OF THE STOMACH is the discovery of the inventor of Coe's valuable Cough Balsam, while experimenting for his own health. It cured Cramp in the Stomach for him which had before yielded to nothing but choloform.

The almost daily testimony from various parts of the country encourage us to believe there is no disease caused by a disordered stomach it will not speedily cure. Physicians endorse and use it. Ministers give testimony of its efficacy; and from all directions we receive tidings of cures performed.

Dyspepsia it is sure to cure. Heartburn one dose will cure. Sick Headache it has cured in hundreds of cases. Headache and Dizziness it stops in thirty minutes. Acidity of the Stomach it corrects at once. Rising of the Food it stops immediately. Distress after Eating one dose will remove. Cholera Morbus rapidly yields to a few doses. Bad Breath will be changed with half a bottle.

IT IS PERFECTLY HARMLESS!

Its unprecedented success is owing to the fact that it cures by assisting Nature to re-assert her sway in the system.

Nearly every dealer in the United States sells it at ONE DOLLAR PER BOTTLE.

It creates a good appetite, restores the digestive organs, gives tone to the stomach, and strengthens the nervous system. The Doctor has thousands of letters enthusiastically recommending it from all parts of the country. One is from the well-known Captain Burnham, of Cincinnati, who says it has cured him after suffering over twelve years. It is sold at Dr. Strickland's Depot, but is especially for the dyspeptic. Those suffering with fits can have excellent proof. It is sold at Dr. Strickland's Depot, at one dollar per bottle. Try it. If you wish to be cured.

CARD TO INVALIDS.—A Clergyman, while residing in South America as a missionary, discovered a safe and simple remedy for the Cure of Nervous Weakness, Early Decay, Diseases of the Urinary and Seminal Organs, and the whole train of disorders brought on by baneful and vicious habits. Great numbers have been cured by this noble remedy. Prompted by a desire to benefit the afflicted and unfortunate, I will send the recipe for preparing and using this medicine, in a sealed envelope, to any one who needs it, Free of Charge. Address,
